

What	Why	You need;
All staff workshop	Because every person in the school community can make a contribution to promoting resilience	A large room A lead who is familiar with the materials and evidence based approaches
Presentation – Introduction to Academic Resilience, what it is and how schools can promote it	Because we know that the more people understand the more confident they are to take small steps which can have big impact on disadvantaged pupils.	Presentation
Short film – here's what other schools are doing...	Inspire staff and illustrate the importance of the whole school/whole organisation approach	Youtube playlist – suggest you watch a few a choose the best for your school
Self assessment (audit the whole school)	Staff know the school. Engage staff in identifying solutions/development planning	Audit form for whole staff group exercise (build on this with other audit activity at other times e.g. SLT audit tool, focus group, staff survey....)
Trying the Resilience Framework for planning for individual pupils	Gives staff a set of simple strategies to try when they get stuck with those pupils they find challenging or with pupils that need strengths building up in different areas of their lives.	The Resilience Framework If they like this they might like our classroom resource which is based on this and can be used directly with pupils in tutor, PSHE or class.